*NATIONAL DAILY DIRECT CATTLE 5 DAY ACCUMULATED WEIGHTED AVERAGES – Steer prices and steer weights**

=====

Bullish traders should be pleased to see Choice boxed beef on Monday that Choice was up $2.89 and the Select cutout up $3.22. However, when there are just a total of 96 loads of all beef load sold, bullish enthusiasm needs to be reined in and it is how the trade took the positive boxed beef news with Live Cattle and Feeder cattle closing lower Monday.

August Live Cattle on Monday settled at $179.75 . The 5 day negotiated steer price is $186.21.

=====

Last week on limited buying packers paid $1.00 higher and a few up to $2.00 higher. Kansas, Texas, New Mexico and Oklahoma sell very few on negotiated sales.

Packers keep a tight count on how many cattle they buy on the showlist and buy just enough cattle to fill orders. It is their way off supporting the beef market. Feedlots especially in the Midwest are going to sell taking advantage of the wide basis.

=====

Lean Hog futures have been trending down since August 1st and Monday was no exception. During June and July pork prices moved higher as pork became a competitive meat as beef prices moved up. However, beef has been turning down and with the increasing number of hogs slaughtered there is more pork.

Monday was a good example why not to focus on daily pork sales compared to the 5 day average. Bellies on the morning market were up $32.74 and afternoon prices were down $2.56. Hams in the morning were up $2.36 and afternoon prices were off $6.43.

The CME Lean Hog Index has been narrowing to the CME pork Index. This is negative for packers.
