Neither futures trading nor swaps trading are suitable for all investors, and each involves the risk of loss. Swaps trading should only be undertaken by investors who are Eligible Contract Participants (ECPs) within the meaning of Section 1a(18) of the Commodity Exchange Act. Futures and swaps each are leveraged investments and, because only a percentage of a contract's value is required to trade, it is possible to lose more than the amount of money deposited for either a futures or swaps position. Therefore, traders should only use funds that they can afford to lose without affecting their lifestyles and only a portion of those funds should be devoted to any one trade because traders cannot expect to profit on every trade.

"IF YOU THINK COMPLIANCE IS EXPENSIVE, TRY NON-COMPLIANCE"

Paul McNulty, former U.S. Attorney General

As the futures markets evolve, an effective compliance program should do the same. New rules and regulations are established for good reason...to protect the integrity of the markets and to protect the customers you serve. Your regulators aim to safeguard the integrity of the derivatives markets, protect investors, and ensure each member in the industry meets their regulatory responsibilities. Your approach to compliance should be treated with the same level of detail and respect you give to other parts of your business.

Robert DeMuria and Joseph Mazza have over 35 years of experience in the futures industry. Both entered the industry where it counts the most...as compliance professionals with National Futures Association. CSI and its dedicated staff have been providing the futures industry with quality service since 1994.
